

SKILLS FOR THE FUTURE

Make yourself agile and indispensable at work

INSPIRATIONAL SPEECH FOR LARGE AUDIENCES BY SZYMON KUDŁA

We perform in a world full of tensions, disruptors, fake news, social media bubbles, information overload and, first and foremost, digital revolution. As the pace of change continues to accelerate, the skills we need to thrive in the workplace are shifting, as well. What skills will be in demand by employers in the next ten years? How can we prepare our kids for the jobs that don't exist yet (but will soon)? Discover metaanalysis of surveys and research conducted by such organizations as OECD or World Economic Forum. Listen to advice by world-renowned experts on education and future trends. It only depends on us if the forthcoming years will be a professional threat, or an exciting adventure. Help yourself, your teammates and your children to get ready for the future, which has already begun.

Perfect for: Teams and employees worried about their jobs and overwhelmed with scope of changes and ambiguity.

- CURIOSITY. Step outside of self-comforting attitude; boost your hunger for knowledge and follow new trends.
- CRITICAL THINKING. Analyze issues based on evidence rather than hearsay, personal opinions, or biases.
- ANALYTICAL THINKING. Detect patterns, interpret data, integrate new information and make decisions based on multiple factors.
- MULTI-SCENARIO APPROACH. Increase operational flexibility; get ready for different possible futures.
- RECONCILING TENSIONS AND DILEMMAS. Find a balance between competing, contradictory or incompatible demands.
- DIGITAL LITERACY. Learn, work and navigate everyday life in the digital world with confidence.
- RESILIENCE. Boost your stress tolerance and adhere to your efforts despite failures and obstacles.
- SELF-MANAGEMENT AND ACCOUNTABILITY. Stay calm and do what depends on you.
